When Arrow Pharmaceutical relaunched their iconic generics brand in Australia their vision was clear - they wanted nothing generic about Arrow's new workspace.

Creating inter-connecting adjoining buildings was an exciting challenge. With a clever use of acrylic as office walling and with a new fire engineering solution, Tandem and Molecule were able to achieve a spatially unified floor space which ticked all the boxes.

The team proudly delivered to Arrow a multifunctional fit out with clean line sophistication and an unmistakable cool edge. This versatile space, much like the newly relaunched brand, is properly geared for exciting growth.

Tandem's early engagement meant we could immediately leverage expert programme and construction advice allowing us to fully explore some ambitious design led solutions
